

Installation of ladder-shaped cable trays in the UAE

Article Overview

Ladder cable trays in the UAE are installed using robust, corrosion-resistant materials with proper support, ventilation, and separation to ensure long-term safety and performance.

Material Selection and Environmental Considerations

In the UAE, ladder cable trays are commonly made from hot-dip galvanized (HDG) steel, stainless steel, or GRP/FRP composites to withstand high temperatures, humidity, dust, and corrosive environments . GRP and FRP trays are particularly suitable for coastal, petrochemical, and marine facilities due to their non-corrosive and non-conductive properties, eliminating the need for grounding . For outdoor or industrial applications, HDG or stainless steel trays provide high load-bearing capacity and durability .

Design and Load Considerations

Ladder trays are designed with two side rails connected by rungs, providing maximum strength for supporting heavy power cables or large bundles over long spans without sagging . Standard dimensions in the UAE typically include 4m lengths, 150mm rail height, and 119mm rung spacing, though customization from 3m to 6m is available . Proper support systems must be installed to accommodate the weight of cables, preventing sagging and deformation . Exceeding the recommended filling rate of 40-50% can reduce ventilation and cause overheating, shortening cable life
