

Italian optical cable equipment communication

Article Overview

Italy has a robust optical communication sector, with leading manufacturers like CPE Italia, Tratos, and Cavicel supplying high-quality fiber optic cables and network equipment for FTTH, data centers, and high-speed telecommunications.

Key Manufacturers and Products

CPE Italia specializes in fiber optic network equipment, including OTDRs (ST3200 and ST3200 mini), fusion splicers, power meters, optical light sources, visual fault locators, and pre-terminated MTP/MPO cables. Their products support data centers, enterprise networks, and FTTH installations, with ISO:9001 certification and compliance with IEC, Telcordia, and RoHS standards . Tratos Group manufactures a wide range of optical fiber cables, including Step Index single-mode and Graded Index multimode fibers, loose tube, ribbon, and hybrid copper-fiber cables. Tratos supplies Telecom Italia and designs cables for underground, aerial, and indoor applications, emphasizing high-speed communication, durability, and ease of installation . Cavicel S.p.A. produces optical cables for diverse applications, ensuring quality and global distribution. They provide engineering support for broadband and fiber optic infrastructure projects . Out Line Company offers solutions for FTTH, FTTR, and data center networks, including patch cords, connectors, modular distribution boxes, and splicing/protection tools. Their in-house R&D and international supply-chain control enable scalable and reliable network deployments .
