

What are some manufacturers of optical fiber cable splice packs

Article Overview

Key manufacturers of optical fiber cable splice packs include EFB-Elektronik, Phoenix Contact, LAPP, Fiber Products, and SpliceGroup.

Notable Manufacturers

EFB-Elektronik EFB-Elektronik offers a wide range of fiber splice boxes and distribution boxes, including pre-assembled and customizable options. Their splice boxes protect and manage spliced fiber optic cables, featuring removable and stackable splice cassettes for organized cable routing and secure connections .

Phoenix Contact Phoenix Contact provides compact splice boxes suitable for DIN rail and 19" mounting. Their enclosures are designed for reliable real-time data transmission, with metal housings, IP20 protection, and flexible cable outlet options .

LAPP LAPP's splice boxes are designed to protect spliced fibers from environmental factors while enabling easy maintenance and repair. They offer space for splice protection devices and ensure clear cable routing for efficient fiber management .

Fiber Products Fiber Products specializes in modular FTTH splicing systems for utilities, telecoms, and data centers. Their solutions range from compact 1U to flexible 3U/4U systems, supporting up to 288 fibers per rack unit. They provide high-density splice modules, DIN rail boxes for industrial environments, and custom fiber optic solutions tailored to project requirements .

SpliceGroup SpliceGroup manufactures fiber management products including optical distribution frames, panels, modules, and connectivity systems. Their products are engineered for scalable network infrastructure and adaptable to various sectors and locations
